DIRECTORS NAME CANDIDATES FOR HEAD OF ALUMNI

Outstanding Alumni Have Been Suggested For Presidency

SKETCHES ARE GIVEN
Members Are Requested
To Vote When Ballots
Are Mailed

At a recent meeting of the Board of Directors of the Alumni Association of Western Kentucky State Teachers College, candidates were named for president of the association for next year. This honor was not sought by these parties, but the members of the board chose them knowing that anyone of those named would be glad to serve in this capacity for the good they could do for the college. For that reason, they were not consulted previous to the nomination. A little sketch of each is given herewith.

J. F. Tanner, A. B. '26, lives at Russellville and is principal of the high school there. He has made a good record in this field and is an excellent speaker. He has a Master's degree from the University of Indiana.

J. Walter Compton, life certificate class of 1914, afterwards taking his Bachelor's and Master's degree from Peabody College. He has been principal of graded and high schools in the state and at present is director of the Training School at Murray State Teachers College, Murray, Kentucky.

J. W. Snyder, county superintendent of schools of Daviess County and living at Owensboro, graduated with the life certificate class of 1914. Afterwards he graduated from the University of Kentucky. He is a progressive county superintendent and has been a loyal alumnus of the institution.

Lee Jones, A. B. '24, after graduating from Western, received the law degree from the University of Kentucky. He is now practicing law in Louisville and is already recognized as a leader in this profession.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors, only one nomination was made: Mrs. Carl D. Herdman of Bowling Green, formerly Virginia Meyer, and a graduate of Potter College. The members of this class have organized themselves in a splendid way. Mrs. Herdman is one of the recognized leaders of this group.

When the ballots are sent out, it is hoped that the members will return them promptly.

Miss Helm At National Meet Of Librarians

Miss Margie Helm, head librarian, is attending the American Library Association meeting at New Orleans, which is in session this week. Miss Helm is one of the speakers on a debate, the subject of which is: Resolved, that the apprentice class is passing. Miss Helm is arguing for library school training, such as Western's Library Department gives.

The other affirmative speaker is Mr. Harold Bringham, Louisville, Kentucky. The speakers for the negative side are Mr. Clarence Sherman, Providence, Rhode Island, and Miss Rena Brown, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Dr. Wilson Speaks At B. G. B. U. Chapel

Dr. Gordon Wilson of the English Department spoke at the chapel exercise of the Bowling Green Business University on Tuesday, April 5. The address was well constructed to offset the present attacks being made on the public schools and the depression. Using for his subject "The Faith of the Teacher," Dr. Wilson emphasized the importance of the calling of the teacher at all times, but especially during the present crisis. He stressed the necessity of the teacher's keeping constantly in mind that his chief task is to teach ideals rather than facts. The talk was closed with the quotation of Matthew Arnold's poem, "Rugby Chapel."

Dr. and Mrs. Cherry Entertain Students

On Tuesday afternoon, April

12, President and Mrs. H. H. Cherry held open house for the entire student body and faculty of Western Teachers College and Training School at the new President's home on the campus. The hours were from two until six o'clock.

A well arranged plan of procedure had been worked out by Mrs. Cherry. The guests were received in the living room and library, then invited to the second floor by way of the main stairway. Descending from the second floor by the second stairway, they then entered the dining room and sun parlor, where they were served delicious fruit punch.

The faculty wives assisted Dr. and Mrs. Cherry in receiving and entertaining.

About twenty-five hundred students and teachers called during the afternoon.

H. M. JAMESON DIES AT MACON

Graduate of Southern Normal School Succumbs

An apoplectic stroke ended the life of Mr. Henry Madison Jameson at Macon, Georgia, on April 6. Mr. Jameson, a resident of Bowling Green, was a traveling representative for the Southwest Publishing Company, Cincinnati, Ohio, and was calling on a business college in Macon when he was overcome by an attack of apoplexy. His death followed in a short while.

Mr. Jameson was graduated from the old Southern Normal School in 1902, and after graduation he taught in Wilson's Business College, Seattle, Washington. Later he went to Heald's Business College, San Jose, California. In 1911 he returned to Bowling Green to become head of the Bookkeeping Department of the Bowling Green Business University. He held this position until 1925, when his health forced him to resign. His resignation was accepted the position that he held at the time of his death.

Mr. Jameson is survived by his wife and two daughters, Alice Stuart Jameson, and Mrs. D. E. Foster, all of Bowling Green; his father, Mr. J. W. Jameson, Horse Cave, Kentucky; and J. K. Jameson, Seattle, Washington; and one sister, Mrs. E. V. Withers, Hardyville, Kentucky.

Library Secures Index

Western Students Hear From Susie Once More

Susie Writes From Pastureville Giving
News of Some Former Students

Pastureville, Ky., April 6, 1932

Dear Everyone:

This is such a lovely, fragrant spring evening! It is very easy to imagine how sweet the hill smells now, when all of the world is stirring and bringing forth fresh colors and forms. I almost feel as if I would like to be a gardener myself. Wonder if I could exchange my grade book for a hoe?

We have four special programs to arrange before school closes, besides participating in some athletic events. Sometimes I feel like crying, "Bring back the good old days of the three 'R's'!" But then I suppose they would not suffice to meet the demands of our modern, committee-filled world. The mail has been bringing in

Mothers' Day Program Is To Be Presented On May 6

Mr. J. R. Whitmer To Be In Charge Of Program Honoring Mothers

Following a custom of several years, Mother's Day will be observed on College Heights on Friday, May 6. A program, under the direction of Mr. J. R. Whitmer, will be presented at the regular chapel period. At 7:30 o'clock on Friday evening a play will be presented at the Little Theatre by the Dramatic Club under the direction of Mrs. T. C. Cherry. Music will be furnished by the Girls' Band, Mr. Elliott Orr, directing.

The programs are given in honor of the mothers who have had students in the Southern Normal School, Western Normal, Ogden College and Western Kentucky Teachers College. The same contests will be held as they have been previous years. Bonquets will be presented to the oldest and youngest mothers who have had children in school here, to the mother who has had the greatest number of children in school here, and to the mother coming the greatest distance.

The Mother's Day program was originated at Western in 1923. It has always been under the direction of Mr. J. R. Whitmer, who has been assisted by Mrs. T. C. Cherry and Mrs. Nellie Gooch Travelstead.

Easter Service Held In Little Theatre

Due to the inclement weather that prevailed earlier morning, the sunrise service of Western was held in the Little Theatre of the Library Building.

The college cooperated with the Ministerial Association of the city in holding this service. Miss Emma Stith of the English Department introduced the custom in 1928.

The program of this year was considered a success by those present, despite the fact that, contrary to custom, it was given inside.

Following is the program: opening remarks—Reverend E. P. Downey; announcement of hymns; Reverend E. P. Downey in vocation—Reverend A. B. House; "Welcome Happy Morning" (song)—congregation; Scripture reading—Reverend E. P. Downey; prayer—Reverend E. P. ## Sophomores Give Annual Production

Three-Act Farce Staged
By Sophomore
Class

The Sophomores presented their annual dramatic production on Friday evening, April 22, in the Auditorium. This year the three-act farce, "The Whole Town's Talking," was the vehicle of the class.

The opening curtain revealed the living-room of the Simmons family, a rather well-to-do family in Sandusky. Complications began to arise when it was discovered that Mr. Simmons had been in the company of a lady other than his wife on the preceding evening. This fact was disclosed by the return of a lady's purse to Mrs. Simmons by a taxi-driver before Simmons had come down for breakfast. The big complicating factor was that of Ethel Simmons' return from Chicago with a young man, Roger Shields, whom she thought she loved. But Mr. Simmons had other plans for his daughter's marriage, and here began the series of complicating events. Simmons had a business partner, Chester Binney, whom he intended Ethel to marry. But Binney was so out-of-date and backward that Simmons was forced to devise a scheme whereby Ethel would fall for Chester and forget Shields.

Simmons finally hit upon the idea of pretending that Binney had previously had a desperate love affair with a famous beauty, in hopes that this would open Ethel's eyes to the "possibilities" in Chester. Unfortunately, Simmons and Binney selected a picture of a motion picture star, Letty Lythe, as one of the "proofs" of Binney's "woman-killing" powers. To heighten the illusion, they went so far as to write a very personal message on the back of the photo. This was good so far as it went, but Fate intervened and brought not only Miss Lythe herself, but also her fiancé, Donald Swift, to Sandusky, for a personal appearance at the Luna Theatre where one of her latest successes was featured. Naturally, she heard of the big uproar of her supposed affair with Binney, and for the "whole town was talking" about it.

The few following incidents in trying to get at the bottom of the affair were anything but satisfactory for Simmons and Binney. Chester—even feared for his life at times.

Al-Bauschen's orchestra furnished the music between acts. The cast of characters included W. L. Ross, Jr., Claudia Coukley, Elsie Nash, Billie Beams, Ethel Reharker, Virginia Price, Joe Williams, Fred Greer, Virginia Kelley, Virginia Ward, Lola Wilson, George Helm, Della Sanders. Arrangements were effected by Forrest Duncan, stage manager, Howard Hicks, James Claypool, Gilbert Wood, Eugene Greer, assistants, Emory White, Bill Gordon, electricians, Edna Hattie, costumes. The play was directed by Mr. A. Loudermilk.

Dr. Ford Gives
Dedication Speech

Dr. M. C. Ford, head of the Ogden Department of Science of Western Kentucky Teachers College, went to Dundee, Kentucky, Ohio County, on Saturday, April 23, to dedicate the Dundee Consolidated School.

In addition to the grade schools in towns of Ohio County, the County Board of Education is now conducting four consolidated schools in which high school courses are given.

Wilson Memorial Film Shown Here

The picture was adjudged by many who saw it to be one of the most interesting and inspiring programs ever given on the Hill.

750 Gather At Western Breakfast

Representatives Of Many Classes Give
Greetings

The annual Western breakfast at the Brown Hotel at 7:30 o'clock on Friday morning, April 15, was an eventful occasion for the many Western alumni, faculty and students who assembled in the Crystal Ballroom for the elaborate affair. Covers were laid for some seven hundred fifty people.

Genuine Western enthusiasm and college spirit were evidenced in the assembly singing of pep songs under the direction of Mrs. Nellie Gooch Travelstead and in the impromptu greetings from representatives of almost every class since the institution was established. The voluntary program was in charge of T. O. Hall, Greenville president of the Alumni Association, and short talks were made by Dr. Raymond Kent, president of the University of Louisville; Judge Huston Quinn, former mayor of Louisville; McHenry Rhoads, former State Superintendent of Public Instruction; Sterret Cuthbertson, member of the Board of Regents, and Dr. H. H. Cherry, who appealed to every member of the Alumni Association for earnest support during the present educational crisis.

M'ADOO IS TO SPEAK HERE ON 'DISARMAMENT'

Former Secretary Of The Treasury Accepts
Invitation

SUNDAY, MAY 1, IS DATE

Address Likely To Be Broadcast By Station

The Honorable William Gibbs McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury under President Woodrow Wilson and also a son-in-law of the War President, will speak on "Disarmament" at Western on Sunday, May 1. Mr. McAdoo accepted President Cherry's invitation, which was extended a few weeks ago.

The New Physical Education Building will be arranged to seat the large crowd that is expected to attend the speaking. Mr. McAdoo was to have made his appearance here earlier in the year, but he was hindered by unexpected circumstances. He will arrive here Sunday morning by airplane direct from his Los Angeles home, and the speech is scheduled for two o'clock that afternoon. The address will probably be broadcast over a Nashville radio station.

Mr. McAdoo is an outstanding national figure. He is known as a statesman, lawyer and politician. He won national favor in New York as president and director of the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company from 1902 to 1908. He was acting chairman of the Democratic National Committee during most of the presidential campaign of 1912 and was appointed Secretary of the Treasury in 1913. His influence and services were instrumental in creating the Federal Reserve System, the Federal Farm Loan Board and the United States Shipping Board. His war measures were of invaluable aid in adjusting the Treasury to the strain of World War expenses. When the government assumed control of railroads in 1917, Mr. McAdoo was appointed director-general of the system on a temporary basis.

His appearance at Western affords a valuable opportunity for everyone in this community and surrounding communities to hear one of the great statesmen of the country.

Some Neglected Friends

Some friends talk with us; others satisfy us merely by their presence; and then there are those that just sit waiting to smile and brighten the way as we pass, though they speak no word. Many of these latter live on the Hill. Our president secured them as companions for us, and expert artists brought them from afar, accompanying them to see that they were desirably placed.

It is a daily tragedy that most of us are too busy to stop frequently and converse with such virtuous beings. We do not scorn them, nor are we antagonistic toward their presence. In fact, were they to emigrate, we would be quite sad; possibly we ourselves would not remain were they to leave. Surely the visitors who come to Western would not admire our home should these silent souls be removed. Their gentle personality blends with the curves and the buildings and the walks to make the campus the most magnificent out-of-door reception room in Kentucky.

By our sheer indifference to their presence we must offend these meek spirits. We do not hear their complaints, but that is only because we have not sought to learn their language. For they speak "a various language," as well as our; beauty is one of their virtues; and the desire to cheer is their excuse for being. Nature must have erred in providing such attractive creatures with no means of utterance, but she, not foreseeing how heartless man might come to be, thought them safe because of their own beauty and ability to charm.

Perhaps you have just been too busy to get acquainted with these comrades, so here is an introduction: When you again cross the campus, meet the trees reaching out to draw you into the heart of them, feast your eyes on the budding shrubs and the young flowers just pushing their heads from the soft earth, or rest your eyes upon the velvety softness of the grass unexcelled even by that of the Bluegrass country. Of course you have never intimately known these charming folk or you would never so thoughtlessly have broken tiny twigs in passing, picked the heads from the flowers, or cut across the grassy corners to get to dinner thirty seconds earlier. But now you have been introduced. Cultivate these new acquaintances, and they will smile back at you. When you feel the heat of them, and know their language, the desecration of their beauty by others will be a personal offense to you. Poems and books and pictures may be made by men, "But only God can make a tree."

GLENN MAXWELL

The Untouchables

The mere touch of a member of the Sudras caste of India is considered by a Brahmin to be pollution. These degraded people, the so-called untouchables, are held off from all social relationship with the higher strata of Indian society by the unbreakable bonds of age-old custom.

In America we do not have these unnatural social relationships, yet there is on every campus a group of people hardly less set off from the finer contacts and possibilities of life than are the Indian Sudras. Daily they throng with others in the classrooms and halls, yet they are held apart from other students and especially from the faculty by laziness, by distrust and by a shell, impermeable to the aspirations that make men, which they draw about themselves.

They are the cheaters, the "clippers-by," the ones who maneuver for hours to escape the honest work of minutes, the ones who are searching for others' ideas to use in place of their own, the ones who consider college life as four years spent in deceiving teachers. One hears their views and philosophies of life at the conventions which they hold around the nearest soda fountain. The beauty of poetry, the surge of history, and the fascination of science affect them not at all. The inspiration of a great instructor's personality they see not, but sit blindly in class within range of his genius, thinking only of copying their neighbors' papers.

They lie with their eyes in the mud, considering only the slime of the moment, and seeing not the glory of the eastern rainbow, promising as it does, the brilliant new day which is to dawn.

JOHN THOMAS JR.

A student contribution worthy

trio that appeared on March 22, composed of Mary Frances Bradley, Leon Shields, and Lloyd Barnard. The trio was coached by Miss Bradley, who, incidentally, is the composer of Western's school song, "College Heights." Their voices were well blended, and their spirit of cooperation was appreciated.

Members of the music faculty assisted in the Easter music at various local churches on Easter Sunday. Miss Gladys Sims was soprano soloist at Westminster Presbyterian Church, in their cantata on Sunday morning. Miss Clara Elledge was contralto soloist at the Christian Church on Sunday afternoon and also assisted at Westminster Presbyterian in the morning. Mr. Louis Friedman sang bass solo parts in the cantata given at the State Street Methodist Church in the evening. Miss Ella Hurd was soprano soloist at the Episcopal Church.

The Girls Glee Club and the Orchestra had their pictures taken for the Louisville Courier-Journal for Sunday, April 3. The pictures will also appear in the K. E. A. Journal. Both groups appeared in Louisville at the K. E. A. program on April 15.

The Troubadours, a double quartette of young men in the college which has grown out of a volunteer quartette organized last fall, were heard at two recent dates on the campus, Wednesday evening, March 30, at the Strath Music Club in Music Hall, and Monday, April 11, at the Graduate Club in the Cedar House. The members are as follows: first tenors, A. V. Armstrong, Elmo Wilcox; second tenors, Curtis Atcock, Donald Myers; baritone, Raymond Brock, Otis Allen; bass, Vincent Phillips, Forrest West; Marguerite Wicker, accompanied Miss Clara Elledge, director.

An event of national importance in the field of music was the Music Supervisors' National Conference held in Cleveland on April 3-8. It was attended by thousands of music educators from every section of the United States with representatives from Canada and from abroad. There were demonstrations of major significance with more than twelve hundred trained participants representing all states and territories of United States. Speakers, artists and conductors of national and international renown gave inspiration and spread high ideals in the cause of music in America.

Mr. Louis Friedman gave two violin solos in chapel on Monday, March 28; Traumerel by Schumann and German Dance by Mozart. These two highly contrasting numbers gave Mr. Friedman opportunity to display rich, sustained tones and flowing melody line in the first and light delicacy and buoyant gaiety in the second. Mr. Friedman did both numbers well and left his audience wishing for more. Miss Louise Owsley of the Music Department of the Training School played the accompaniments in a sympathetic and able manner.

On Monday, April 11, a group of singers from Peabody College visited Western and gave a delightful program in the chapel. The ensemble was made up of about thirty mixed voices trained and directed by Professor Gebhart, head of the Music Department at Peabody.

The program was varied and interesting, including the art song, grand opera Excerpts, and a pleasing and spirited group of light opera selections, which were sung with beautiful tone and blending quality.

Miss Grace O'Callaghan, coloratura soprano, was outstanding for her solo work in the "Misereere" from Il Trovatore and her obligato work in "Dreaming" by Victor Herbert. Her voice is light, clear, flexible and beautiful in quality.

Mr. Leland Straw, tenor, also contributed much with his smooth, well-controlled voice in both solo and group singing.

The ever popular "Italian Street Song" was especially pleasing on account of the obligato by Betsy Gebhart Turner, daughter of the director. The gay, light abandon of the obligato, supported by the dainty, well-controlled and blended accompaniment of the other voices, made the number a delightful one.

Mrs. Gebhart played the accompaniments.

An half hour program by Pro

and Franz J. Strahm, accompanist, was broadcast on Sunday evening, April 24, Station WFW Hopkinsville. The program was varied and ranged from a Grieg Sonata to the lyric and melodious shorter composition of Kreidler.

The children of the Training School, grades one, two, three and four, and of the Rural School have prepared an operetta "Mother Goose's Garden," which includes about sixty children.

The plot is built around daily class songs, and the time of performance is about twenty-five minutes. It represents a cooperative activity.

The part of Mother Goose is charmingly carried by Jane Friedman, and the principal singing part is by Gordon Wilson, Jr., as the gardener.

Miss Louise Christie of the Art Department, has directed the costuming. Miss Louise Owsley is director of the operetta and has been assisted by ten student teachers. Miss Louise Ankershail and Louise Jackson act as accompanists.

A performance of this operetta was given at the college chapel exercises on April 22. It gave the many prospective teachers in the student body a splendid chance to see what can be done along this line.

A quartette of college boys consisting of first tenor, Raymond Anderson; second tenor, William Johnson; first bass, Arthur Holmes; and second bass, Q. A. Butler; sang "Oppy Trail"—by Galloway, at chapel on April 13.

Western is justly proud of her musical contribution to K. E. A. this year through the work of the Girls Glee Club under the direction of Miss Gladys Sims and the Orchestra under Professor Strahm. Many expressions of appreciation have come from various parts of the state.

SUNSET

By George Burchette

From a mountain I watched the sun set

In crimson and purple and gold;
Sinking away in the distance
Like one of whom I've lost hold.

I wondered how many sunsets,
And how many rose-tinted skies
Had drawn their redress from heartaches—
Their blueness from tear-washed eyes.

I fancied a fond caressing
As the colors were wafted
apart;
And somehow my soul seemed hungry,
And I felt the teardrops start.

I sat until the splendor had vanished,
And the sun was quite out of sight;
Darkness had gathered around me,
And I was alone in the night.

Thus to me are the sunsets,
With their crimson and purple
and gold,
They are only reflecting the sorrows
That a broken heart can hold.

A DAY DREAM

By Moseley Cambron

I wonder what is beyond that hill—
The farthest hill that the eye can reach?
Is there a city of beautiful build—
A golden city on a silver beach?

Does there exist in that city of gold
A marvelous palace of magnificent mould?
And is there in that palace for me
A radiant maiden as I've dreamed there would be?

If the maiden be there, this I know:
To the golden city I will go!
To dwell forever in her bliss;
To live for her smiles and perchance a kiss!

THE LONG & THE SHORT OF IT

Advanced Dope

open Friday, April 30, when they meet the Murray College pine on the latter's diamond for a two-day engagement.

The Hilltoppers have shown considerable promise of a strong team this year, and if nothing happens, we predict a couple of wins for E. A. Diddle and his men.

Probable Lineup

1st B.—Harvey
2nd B.—Fried
3rd B.—Elrod
S. E.—Cosby
C. E.—Bryant
L. F.—Polard

Cle Rex

"Ole Rex," famous bird dog of Coach Diddle's, is proving to be quite a valuable asset to the baseball team, due to his ability to chase down foul balls and return them to the playing field—maybe his success is due to his "fowl" (foul) instinct.

"Liggen"

Didja hear the one about the Jewish football star who dropped a pass over the goal line because he didn't want to catch a "pig skin"?

The Story They Never Tell

Ninth inning, three runs behind, bases full, count three balls, two strikes, home run hitter of home club at bat—a demon in the center of diamond ties himself in a knot... releases... a white streak darts toward the plate... the batter steps in... swings... resounding smack echoes over the field... the fans howl... but alas... the smack is only that of the ball in the catcher's mit... and the home team is beaten... and the incident is recorded in the batter's mind, as the story he never tells.

Some Man

1st "Dizzy Dean, the 'What a Man' pitcher of the St. Louis Cardinals, has anything in the talking line on our freshman tosser, Jack Farmer, we certainly would like to hear him chatter a while; however, Farmer resembles the Card twirler in more ways than one, after telling the world what he can do, Dean proceeds to do it—and so does Farmer, who incidentally is one of the best pitching prospects seen on the Hill for quite awhile.

Cast of the Extra-Mural League

The finals of the Intra-mural Basketball League have been played at last, and the "W" Club finished on top by defeating the Freshmen Trojans by a three-point majority. The game for the championship was never in doubt from the start, and only in the last few minutes of play did the Trojans show anything of the form which enabled them to defeat the Chemistry-Physics Club for a final berth. The entire "W" squad performed well, and their close guarding was the feature of the game.

Mr. W. T. Runner Passes At His Home In City

Funeral services for Mr. W. T. Runner, who died on April 11, were held at his home in Bowling Green on April 12. He died from a complication of diseases at the age of seventy-nine years. Dr. A. House, pastor of the First Christian Church, was in charge of the services.

Canon, George V. Page, J. M. Simmons, Will Drake, Assistant Chief of Police E. J. Waddle and A. C. McFarland.

Members of the Bowling Green chapter Order of DeMolay were active pallbearers. They were: Van R. Cullitt, George Howerton, John Martin, Charles Patterson, Lehmon Runner and Meryl Runner.

"W" CLUB WINS OVER TROJANS IN FINAL GAME

"W" Boys Are Intra-Mural Champs; To Get Awards

Two basketball games were played in the Physical Education Building last week to decide the winner of the men's intra-mural contests.

In the semi-finals the Trojans defeated the Chemistry-Physics Club 15-14. The Trojans were defeated in the finals by the "W" Club.

The latter game was featured by the remarkable "comeback" of the Trojans in the second half of their contest. Having been outplayed during the first half, the Trojans fought the "W" Club on even terms in the second half; however, the Trojans came out on the small end of an 18-15 score.

Each member of the "W" Club team will receive an intra-mural award.

Orlie Lawrence spent the weekend April 10-11 at his home in Corinth.

Baseball Team Is Getting Into Shape

Coach Ed Diddle's baseball pine has made rapid progress in the two weeks the varsity candidates have been out. The Hilltoppers are beginning to look like a baseball club.

Leroy Elrod seems to be a future star at third base for the baseball nine. Cosby, Booker, McGown are waging a merry battle for the shortstop post. Fried and Duval look like good material at second, and Harvey and Stevenson will take care of the initial sack. Bailey and Martin will do most of the catching. Poland, Pedigo and Lane are the twirlers and the outer garden will go to Logan, Millard and Bryant. Western will play Murray Teachers College there on April 29-30.
